INTRODUCTION

In the State Library one will find one of the most complete genealogical collections to be found in the south. The material is always available to the researchers. The staff gladly assists the patrons in every way possible, but is too small to undertake private researches. We however recommend to our patrons some competent genealogist who will gladly do the work for them at a reasonable price.

The original marriage bonds, deeds, wills, etc., from the various counties are to be found in the Department of the Historical Commission.

The Land grants in the Secretary of State's Office are housed in the same building with the library and here are to be found the land grants from the various counties of North Carolina.
